

“The art of communication is the language of leadership.” -James Humes, author

- Would you like to be a more effective communicator?
- Would you like to be better at inspiring and motivating people?
- Is your team hearing one thing while you are saying another?
- Would you like stronger professional relationships?
- Do you feel misunderstood?

Communication Workshop

Impacting relationships through interactions

We always hear about the importance of communication in the workplace, but what does that really mean? We believe it is really about improving relationships, motivating and leading people, work efficiency and productivity, and reducing misunderstandings and the resulting conflict. Our goal is to help leaders understand their communication style, how they impact others, their conflict triggers, and how they can better motivate others.

Topics Covered:

- Leadership experiences & traits of great leaders
- Exploring Leadership vs. Management
- Intention vs. Impact
- Communication Model & Relationship Ladder
- Personality tendencies
- Thought-provoking leadership exercises

This interactive program includes exercises, activities, and role-plays. Each program is customized to fit your organization - designed to explore topics through deep learning and experiential models, and maximize long-term take-aways.

As participants determine their communication style, the type of relationship they want to have, and the type of leader they aspire to be - shifts in thinking begin to occur. Shifts in thinking motivate shifts in behavior, producing better communicators, stronger relationships, and excellent leaders. We believe people advance by engaging in straight talk.
